

OUR AUTHORS

Anatoly Bazhan — Doctor of Economic Sciences, head of the Department of economic studies of the RAS' Institute of Europe. Areas of interest — international economic relations, EU economy, monetary policy in the EU and Russia, the theory of monetarism. Main publications — “Money and monetary policy in Western Europe” (2005), “The Role of banks in the development of the Russian economy” (2000).

Karol Cencus — Doctor of Political Science, expert of the Economic Department of the European Union at the Polish Ministry of Foreign Affairs. PhD Theses: “Analysis of the factors of the evolution of the international trading system after 1995” (2016).

György Csepeli— Professor of the Department of social psychology at the Eötvös Loránd University of Budapest (Chair of the interdisciplinary doctoral program in social sciences); Senior Researcher at the Institute of Advanced Studies Kőszeg (iASK). Had been a lecturer at the University of Michigan, New School (New York) and Montclair University. His research interests include areas of social psychology such as national identity, anti-Semitism, anti-Roma sentiment, and conflict resolution. Participates in various projects of the European Union on discrimination and European identity.

Peter Dinuš — Ph.D., independent researcher in the Institute of Political Sciences of the Slovak Academy of Sciences. His field of research is concentrated on «reconciliation with the past», the critical theory of society with an emphasis on Marxist position of the society development. Among the most significant works of recent times: «Reconciliation with the past» (2010), «Politics without a mask. Political discourse in Slovakia after 1989» (2015).

Alexander Gushchin — graduate of the Lomonosov Moscow State University' Department of History, Candidate of historical sciences. Since 2009 Associate Professor, Deputy head of the RSUH' Department of post-soviet countries. Author of more than 30 scientific and hundreds of expert articles on the subject of the post-soviet space, Russia's foreign policy and Eurasian integration. He teaches courses on the history of post-soviet countries, Russia's foreign policy in the Eurasian and post-soviet space, country studies, history and the modern development of Ukraine, Belarus and the Baltic States.

Andrzej Habarta — Graduate of the Department of international economic relations of MGIMO University, Candidate of economic Sciences. Associate Professor of the Department of world economy at MGIMO University, leading researcher of the Visegrad center at the RAS' Institute of Europe. Specialist in the field of Polish-Russian bilateral cooperation: economic and investment, cross-border, interregional. Co-author of textbooks: “Poland: politics, economy, society”, “Economy of the Visegrad group”, “World economy and international economic relations”, “Prospects of economic globalization”.

Ivo Hopta — graduate of the Brest State University named after A.S. Pushkin, Moscow State Institute of International Relations and graduate of post-doctoral studies in Diplomatic Academy by the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs specializing in Political Science and Regional Studies.

Luciana Hoptova — Candidate of historical sciences, researcher at the Institute of History of the Prešov University (Slovakia), Department of philosophy. Her interests include the history of Belarus in the 20th century, Byelorussian emigration to Czechoslovakia and modern Slovakia. Main publications: “The Byelorussian emigration to the territory of Czechoslovakia (1918–1945)” (2017) (Bieloruská emigrácia na území Československa (1918–1945)).

Jan Hofmök — Deputy Director of the Eastern Department at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Poland responsible for the Eastern Partnership.

Géza Jeszenszky — historian by education, graduated from the Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. He taught at the University of Corvinus. One of the founders of the Hungarian Democratic Forum. First Foreign Minister of post-socialist Hungary (1990–1994), Ambassador to the United States (1998–2002), Norway and Iceland (2011–2014). One of the founders of the Visegrad group and the Central European initiative. Under him Hungary joined the Association Agreement with the European Union and applied for membership in this organization. He pursued a policy of incorporating Hungary into Euro-Atlantic structures.

Natalya Korovitsyna — Doctor of historical Sciences. Graduate of the Lomonosov Moscow State University’ geographical Department specializing on socialist countries (1976). Had been working at the RAS’ Institute of Slavic Studies (1984–2015). Since January 2018 a leading researcher at the Visegrad center of the RAS’ Institute of Europe. Main research interests: social aspects of transformation processes in Eastern Europe during the second half of 20th and beginning of 21st century. The author of over 100 scientific works, including four monographs.

Karolina Kotulewicz-Wisińska — candidate of economic sciences, Associate Professor of Political Science, Krakow University of Economics. Specialist in Eastern Partnership policy of the European Union.

Zoya Nenasheva — Candidate of historical sciences, Associate Professor of the Department of Southern and Western Slavic History at Moscow Lomonosov State University. Honored teacher of Moscow University (2008). Member of the Russian Association of WWI historians, participates in the Russian-Czech Commission of historians and archivists. She contributed to the study of neo-Slavism, the political history of the Czech lands, Czech emigration to Russia in the 19th century, Orthodoxy in the Czech lands and the fate of the Czechoslovak corps in Russia. Main works: “Ideological and political struggle in the Czech Republic and Slovakia in the beginning of the 20th century. Czechs, Slovaks and neologism. 1898-1914” (1984), “Socio-political thought in the Czech lands in the 19th - early 20th centuries” (1994).

Alexandra Nosatova — student of the MGIMO University.

Maxim Samorukov— deputy editor of Carnegie.ru. Before joining Carnegie in 2015, Samorukov worked for the independent news website Slon.ru for five years. He started as a correspondent and then became an editor and international columnist, covering topics including Russian foreign policy, Central Eastern Europe and its relations with Russia, Balkans, and the challenges of transition to democracy.

Lyubov Shishelina — Doctor of Historical Sciences, Head of the Department of Central and Eastern European studies and the Visegrad center at the RAS’ Institute of Europe. Leading Russian specialist in Hungary and Visegrad region. Since 1984 works at the Academy of Sciences, (in IE RAS from 2006). Between 2004 to 2014 — Professor of the Chair of Social Sciences at Kodolányi János University (Hungary). Since 2007 — Professor of the Department of World politics and international relations at Russian State University of Humanities. Foreign member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences (2015). In 1994 she founded the permanent international scientific conference “Russia and Central Europe in new geopolitical realities”. From 2012 is the editor of the Special issue on the Visegrad Europe of IE RAS journal “Sovremennaja Evropa”. She is the author of six books, an electronic textbook on modern geopolitics and around 300 articles. Editor-in-chief of 13 monographs on relations between Russia and Central Europe, expert of the Russian Academy of Sciences and Russian Council on International Affairs. In 2010 she was awarded the Knight’s Cross of the Hungarian State Order.

Mikhail Vedernikov — graduate of the Department of history, Lomonosov Moscow State University. Candidate of historical sciences, senior researcher of the Department of Central and Eastern European studies and the Visegrad center at the RAS’ Institute of Europe.

Vladislav Vorotnikov — Candidate of historical sciences, leading researcher of the Department of Central and Eastern European Studies of the RAS’ Institute of Europe; Associate professor of history and politics of Europe and America at MGIMO University. Research interests: history of the Baltic States, history of Poland, modern socio-political and economic development of the Baltic Sea region, international relations in Central Europe and the Baltic Sea region. Main publications: “Foreign policy of the Baltic States at the beginning of the XXI century” (2015).