

OUR AUTHORS

Belov Vladislav — Candidate of Economic Sciences, IE RAS' Deputy director, Head of the Center for German Studies, Institute of Europe, RAS. Graduated from the Moscow Financial Institute; worked at IMEMO Academy of Sciences of the USSR; since 1989 — at the Institute of Europe of the Russian Academy of Sciences. The main areas of research are the economies of Germany and Russia, Russian-German economic relations.

Drynochkin Alexey — Professor, Doctor of Economics, Leading researcher at Center for Visegrad Studies, RAS' Institute of Europe. He also works in MGIMO University, Department of World Economy. His main area of scientific interests is the economic aspects of transformation processes in Eastern Europe. He is the author of more than 70 scientific and educational works, including the monographs "Eastern Europe as an Element of the Global Market System", "The Economy of Hungary", "The Economy of Albania", as well as chapters in collective monographs of the Institute of Europe RAS ("Visegrad Europe: where from and where to?") and the Institute of Economics RAS.

Gusev Nikita — Candidate of Historical Sciences, Scientific Secretary of the Institute of Slavic Studies, Senior Researcher of the Department of the History of Slavic Peoples during the World Wars. He has been working at the Institute of Slavic Studies since 2013. In 2012, he graduated from the Department of History of South and West Slavs, Faculty of History, Lomonosov Moscow State University, specializing in the history of Bulgaria. Research interests — Balkan Wars, Russian public opinion at the beginning of the twentieth century.

Habarta Andrzej — Candidate of Economic Sciences, Graduate of the Department of international economic relations of MGIMO University. Associate Professor of the Department of world economy at MGIMO University, leading researcher of the Visegrad center at the RAS' Institute of Europe. Specialist in the field of Polish-Russian bilateral cooperation: economic and investment, cross-border, interregional. Co-author of textbooks: "Poland: politics, economy, society", "Economy of the Visegrad group", "World economy and international economic relations", "Prospects of economic globalization".

Handl Vladimír — JUDr., Csc. A senior associate at the Centre for European Integration. He studied at the Moscow State Institute of International Relations. He teaches at the Institute of International Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences, Charles University, and in the past also worked at the New York University in Prague, as a researcher at the Institute of German Studies, the University of Birmingham and the Foreign Policy Department of the Office of the President. The subject of his professional interest is international relations with a focus on Czech-German relations, their political and historical aspects and Germany's foreign policy, he also deals with security policy and long-term trends in Germany's relations with the Visegrad Group countries and German relations with Russia.

Chetverikova Anna — Candidate of Economic Sciences, Leading Researcher of the European Union Research Sector, Researcher of the Center for European Studies, Primakov IMEMO.

Jeszzenszky Géza — historian by education, graduated from the Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. He taught at the University of Corvinus. One of the founders of the Hungarian

Democratic Forum. First Foreign Minister of post-socialist Hungary (1990–1994), Ambassador to the United States (1998–2002), Norway and Iceland (2011–2014). One of the founders of the Visegrad group and the Central European initiative. Under him Hungary joined the Association Agreement with the European Union and applied for membership in this organization. He pursued a policy of incorporating Hungary into Euro-Atlantic structures.

Kratochvíl Petr — PhD, a senior researcher at the Centre for European Politics. He studied Theology of Christian Traditions at the Protestant Theological Faculty of Charles University, International Relations at the Faculty of Social Sciences of Charles University, and International Political Sciences at the University of Economics in Prague. He lectures at Sciences Po in Paris and at the Metropolitan University in Prague. He was also the Chairman of the Academic Council of the Diplomatic Academy of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Czech Republic and the deputy director (2004–2013) and then director of IIR. The subject of his professional interest is primarily religion in world politics, particularly Christianity in global affairs. But he also explores Theories of International Relations, European Integration and Russian Foreign Policy. He is a special representative of the IIR in the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR), a representative of the IIR and a Board Member in the Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA), vice-chairman of the Board of the IIR, and a member of several universities' academic and doctoral studies councils.

Lisiakiewicz Rafał — PhD in political sciences, graduate of Historical faculty at the Pedagogical University in Krakow and faculty of Cultural studies at the Institute of Regional Studies of the Jagiellonian University. Currently he works at the Department of Political Sciences at the Cracow University of Economics. He specializes in foreign policy issues, Russian Federation politics, Polish-Russian and Russian-EU relations. He conducts research on the political conditions of economic cooperation with Russia. Beside numerous monographs he is also an author of the monograph "Russia's policy towards Poland during the presidency of Vladimir Putin (2000–2008)".

Marušiak Juraj — PhD, graduated from the Faculty of Philosophy of Comenius University in Bratislava (1994). Since 1996, he works at the Institute of Political Science of the Slovak Academy of Sciences. Had been member of the SAS presidium. His research is focused on the history of Slovakia of the 20th century and on the issues of international relations in the region of Central and Eastern Europe since 1989. Beside numerous articles in scientific journals and newspapers he had published a monograph „Slovenská literatúra a moc v druhej polovici päťdesiatych rokov“ (Slovak Literature and the Power in the second half of the 50's; Brno, Pries 2001), he is co-author of the monograph «(Dez)integračná sila stredoeurópskeho nacionalizmu» (The (Dis)integration Power of Central European Nationalism: A Study of the Visegrad Group Countries; Bratislava, Comenius University 2015).

Mikhalev Oleg — Candidate of Historical Sciences, Associate Professor. He teaches at the Department of International Relations and World Politics, Faculty of International Relations, Voronezh State University. In 2006–2007 interned at the Institute of History of the University. A. Mickiewicz (Poznan, Poland). His research interests include problems of modern domestic and foreign policy of Poland, the European Union in international relations, and international relations in the post-Soviet space.

Rodkiewicz Witold — PhD, Adjunct-Professor at the Centre for East European Studies, University of Warsaw; senior Researcher of the Russian Department of OSW. He holds a Master's degree in History from the University of Warsaw and a Ph.D.D in history from Harvard University. His main research interests are Russian foreign policy, Russian political thought.

Samorukov Maxim — deputy editor of Carnegie.ru. Before joining Carnegie in 2015, Samorukov worked for the independent news website Slon.ru for five years. He started as a correspondent and then became an editor and international columnist, covering topics including Russian foreign policy, Central Eastern Europe and its relations with Russia, Balkans, and the challenges of transition to democracy.

Shishelina Lyubov — Doctor of Historical Sciences, Head of the Department of Central and Eastern European studies and the Visegrad center at the RAS' Institute of Europe. Leading Russian specialist in Hungary and Visegrad region. Since 1984 works at the Academy of Sciences, (in IE RAS from 2006). Between 2004 to 2014 — Professor of the Chair of Social Sciences at Kodolányi János University (Hungary). Since 2007 — Professor of the Department of World politics and international relations at Russian State University of Humanities. Foreign member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences (2015). In 1994 she founded the permanent international scientific conference “Russia and Central Europe in new geopolitical realities”. From 2012 is the editor of the Special issue on the Visegrad Europe of IE RAS journal “Sovremennaja Evropa”. She is the author of six books, an electronic textbook on modern geopolitics and around 300 articles. Editor-in-chief of 13 monographs on relations between Russia and Central Europe, expert of the Russian Academy of Sciences and Russian Council on International Affairs. In 2010 she was awarded the Knight's Cross of the Hungarian State Order.

Timofeev Ivan — PhD (political science), a Director of Programs at the Russian International Affairs Council (RIAC) since 2011. RIAC member since 2016. Since 2015 he also heads a “Euro-Atlantic Security” program at Valdai Discussion Club. Before joining RIAC, Dr. Timofeev was the Head of Analytical Monitoring Center and Associate Professor at MGIMO-University (2009–2011). He was awarded a doctoral degree in Political Science at MGIMO in 2006. He has a Master of Arts in Society and Politics (Lancaster University and Central European University, 2003) and a B.A. in Sociology (Saint-Petersburg State University, 2002). Dr. Timofeev is an author and co-author of more than 80 publications, issued in Russian and foreign academic press. He is a member of editorial board at the “Comparative Politics” — an academic journal on foreign policy and political science. In 2013 Dr. Timofeev was elected as a Professor of the Academy for Military Science.

Yushkov Igor — leading analyst of the National Energy Security Fund, expert of the Financial University under the Government of the Russian Federation.

Zadorozhnyuk Ella — Doctor of Historical Sciences, Head of the Department of Contemporary History of Central and Southeastern Europe. Historian, specialist in the contemporary history of the Czech Republic and Slovakia (Czechoslovakia), as well as countries of Central and Southeast Europe. She analyzes in a comparatively historical manner the problems of sociopolitical development of the countries of Central and South-Eastern Europe, studies the history of the dissident and opposition movements and the history of the “Velvet” revolution in Czechoslovakia, studies the post-socialist development of the Czech Republic and Slovakia, works in the field of historical personology. The author of three individual monographs, actively participated in the writing and editing of collective works.